BEFORE AND AFTER ELECTION.

ONE of the war cries of the Democrats during the recent campaign was the charge that George Springmeyer, Republican candidate for attorney-general, was a vassal of the Southern Pacific railroad. In support of this allegation it was stated from every platform in the state that the Republican party was bound to the corporations which have dominated Nevada politics for these many years. The argument was that Springmeyer four years ago pledged himself to the reappointment of the present board of railroad commissioners if he were elected and a terrible picture of the disastrous effects of such appointments was made the real rallying cry of the Democracy. Even Emmet D. Boyle, candidate for governor, aired himself on this allegation and every other man on the state ticket echoed the cry that the state was being sold out to the railroads. This is up-to-date history that is good to cherish that the memories of the present day voters may be refreshed by the official announcement of Governor-elect Boyle that he is going to reappoint the present board of railroad commissioners. At one fell swoop Boyle gives the lie to the chief campaign fulmination and places himself on record as a man who was not afraid to distort a story for the purpose of gaining a few votes. In circulating the report adverse to Springmeyer the governor-elect was guilty of placing himself in the contemptible position of repeating a slander which he knew was groundless for the selfish purpose of injuring an opponent who never did him any wrong. The man who is to succeed Oddie stultifies himself by declaring that his first appointment after induction into office will be the reappointment of the very men whom he denounced as tools and emissaries of the railroads.

The members of the railroad commission are competent and not a shred of suspicion was directed against their administration until the Democrats blew the foul breath of slander against their continuance. They made no direct charges, but the vile insinuations were worse than accusations. This shows to what depths the victorious party in the state election stooped to deceive the people by hoodwinking them into the belief that there was something crooked about the conduct of the railroad commission. Under the circumstances Mr. Boyle has an explanation coming, for with such audacious duplicity before election it would not be surprising to find the forthcoming administration sidestepping other questions of vital importance to the welfare of the people.

WILFUL PREVARICATION.

POOR Miss Margaret Foley, who came all the way from Massachusetts to convert the barbarians of Nevada to equal suffrage is to be pitied. She is now nursing a sore heel and bruised feelings, according to her own unvarnished story. The lady declares Nevada is the wildest of the wild western states, that the people are a lot of Yahoos, unkempt, uncivilized and, who have fallen below the level of the brutes. In an interview printed in the far east Miss Foley displays her spleen against the state which added the latest star to the suffrage flag. The insult is gratuitous and all the greater since other suffragists have had the honesty to compliment Nevada as the manliest and most masculine state in the Union, having the largest percentage of male citizens.

The naked fact is that Miss Foley lies. The poor, dear, sweet, overripe hen is cackling about something she knows is absolutely false or she is allowing her name to be used for the purpose of convincing the public that Nevada is a place unfit for decent people. She declares she visited every mining camp in the state. Some of these had only five inhabitants and that she had to travel in the company of drunken miners whose company she would not endure again for a million dollars. This is plain talking and the plain people of this state may understand how they were regarded by the imported orators sent in here by eastern interests. As a sample of the conclusions of this unprincipled female the following is given:

"I slept in sheds, without any bedclothing, no locks on the doors and nothing but canvas partitions in the hotels, when there was a hotel at all. And when there was, they were always full of drunken miners."

"Yes, indeed, believe me, I have seen the very farthest corner of the most wild and wolly west."

The Democrats are not going to let their political adversaries have control of the legislature without making an effort to overthrow the results already announced by the counties. W. W. Booth and John Schoer, of Elko county, are making the contest on ground of irregularities in Carlin precinct. Elko county taxpayers are not enamored of the Democratic administration and it is not likely they will lend their moral support to the contest.

Mexico has a Hobson's choice in the matter of rulers. With Zapata, a former convict, in charge of the capital and Villa, a bandit of the worst stripe and a man without a single redeeming quality to his credit, aiming for the presidential chair, peace is a long way from consummation.

It is a pretty tough proposition when a governor of this state has to consult a United States senator about appointments. This is the case of Mr. Boyle, according to his own candid admission.

Cotton is bringing 18 cents a pound in Germany, but as the boy said, "there is a place where lemonade is bringing a dollar a drop." The trouble is to get there.

If whisky brings on Bright's disease, beer causes diabetes and wine induces gout and milk and water carry typhoid germs, what's a man going to drink?

Tagmiany is waxing fat and careless. A ten thousand dollar municipal job, vacant for four months, has been discovered in New York city!

BOYLE MENTIONS NAMES OF MEN FOR APPOINTMENT

DAVE HAYES, RECLAMATION SERVICE, OFFERED APPOINTMENT STATE ENGINEER.

Governor-elect Boyle has let it become known that the selection for superintendent of state police will be a man of his own choice. Sam Pickett, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, applied for his brother Tom, who is now a guard at the prison. The governor-elect says he has promised the appointment to A. A. Burke, who will retire as sheriff of Washoe county in January.

The story was that ex-Congressman George Bartlett was to succeed H. F. Bartine as chairman of the Railroad Commission, but Governor-elect Boyle says Bartine will retain his present place; that Shaughnessy is to remain undisturbed and that Simmons' term of office does not expire until two years hence.

"If my plans are carried out," the governor-elect said in discussing his plans, "all the work now conducted by the railway commission will be handled by the railway commission, to which will be added, as ex-officio members, the governor and lieutenant-governor. This will do away with the two members and secretary of the Tax Commission."

Governor-elect Boyle candidly stated that so far as he knew no promises had been made to Ross and that when the appointment for bank commissioner should be made, a selection would be announced from the numerous applicants.

Now it is the gossip that when Warden D. S. Dickerson becomes editor of that new Democratic weekly paper that is to be started, Ross is to be his successor at the prison. But Dickerson is said to be somewhat reluctant to relinquish his post at the penitentiary to take a flyer in such an uncertainty as a new paper.

The next state engineer will be a graduate of the University of Nevada. The position will be held by Dave Hayes, for several years connected with the United States reclamation service in Nevada.

"I do not know whether Hayes is a Republican or a Democrat and I do not care," said the governor-elect when asked about this appointment: "I intend to make the appointment on merit and I regard Hayes as one of the best engineers of the west."

For private secretary, George Smith, his partner in the engineering profession, will be appointed.
